

This poster was originally printed to rally support for the "Chicago 8," activists who were charged with conspiracy for their organizing around the 1968 DNC. Forty years later, eight local organizers, the "RNC 8," face conspiracy charges as part of the state repression around the RNC in St. Paul. These cases are not isolated but exist within a historic context. Though much of the circumstance has changed, the use of the court system to exert control is the same old story.
